Bethel Station

Developers say project's prospects are still solid despite stalled start-up

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The train has been slow leaving the station, largely because of time-consuming regulatory, political, financial and engineering complications, but the Bethel Station project is still on track, according to project developers.

"There is no question it will be built, it's just a matter of timing," said Les Otten, one of the three general partners in the project.

But progress so far is clearly not keeping pace with the optimistic timetable initially envisioned by the developers.

When the project was first announced, in July of 1993, the developers said they hoped to have a train station, 130-room hotel, and 40,000 square feet of retail space on line by the beginning of the 1994-95 ski season.

They also planned to have much of the road and infrastructure work completed by now.

That won't happen. The timetable has been severely set back by a number of factors: the length of time required for convincing the town to swap a key piece of land in the middle of the project area; the need to navigate complex, often overlapping regulatory and financial processes; and the time spent waiting out appeal periods and completing engineering studies.

Now the oncoming winter threatens to set things back still further.

The only construction that might still occur this ski-season would be a scaled-back train station and a combined movie theater/condo

But some advertised amenities are falling by the wayside

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The town is losing some of its sizzle.

Construction work is moving ahead on Bethel's new salt/sand shed and municipal garage, but a number of other components of the Bethel Station project -- elements that were mentioned prominently by the developers when convincing the town to go along with the project -- have either been dropped, substantially scaled back or are facing lengthy delays.

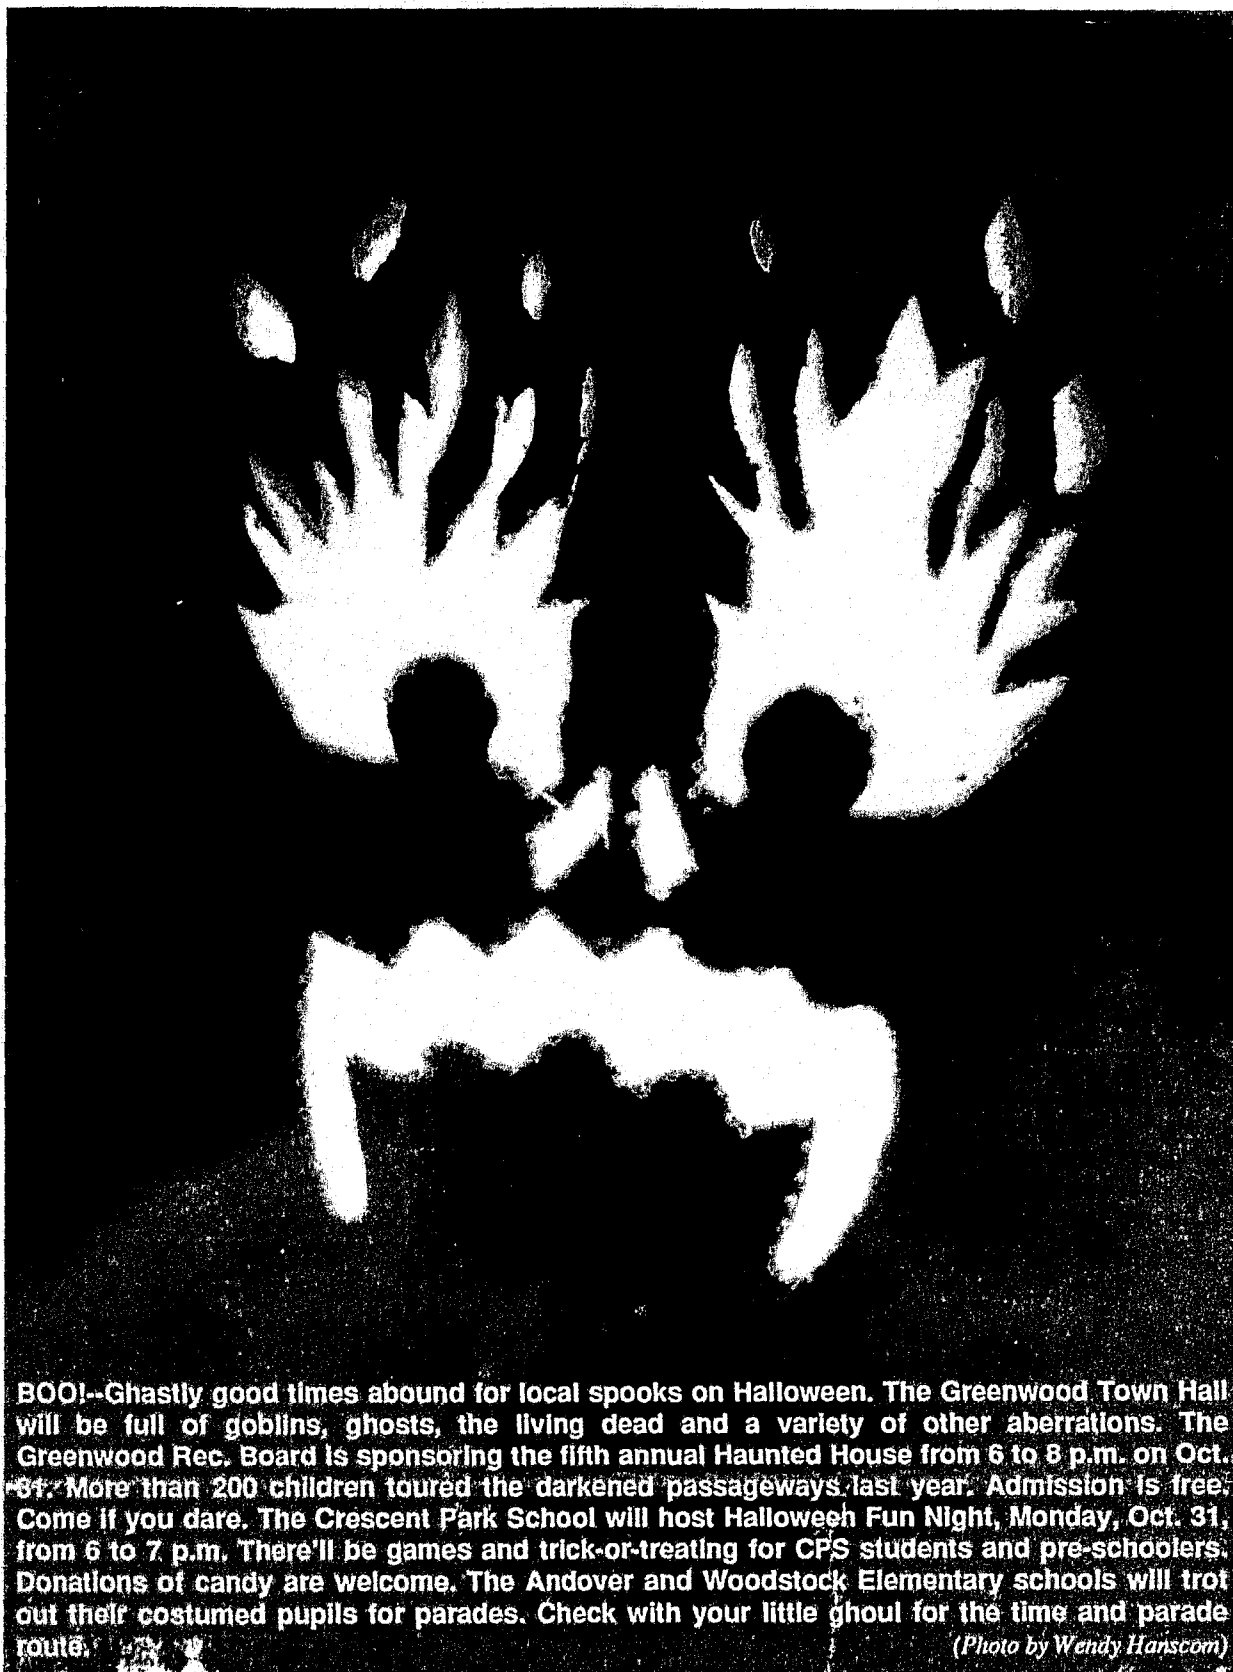

The most notable is the proposed riverside park between the relocated Cross Street and the Androscoggin River.

Developer Hennes Merrill told the town Planning Board this summer that the park will not be built -- because of the need to protect the extensive wetlands along the river.

And the combined pedestrian/biking/snowmobile path that was to have run through the park has been pushed back until at least 1996.

The developers are donating the land for the path (which will run from Davis Park to somewhere near the Red Top on routes 270, but

BOO!—Ghastly good times abound for local spooks on Halloween. The Greenwood Town Hall will be full of goblins, ghosts, the living dead and a variety of other aberrations. The Greenwood Rec. Board is sponsoring the fifth annual Haunted House from 6 to 8 p.m. on Oct. 31. More than 200 children toured the darkened "passageways" last year. Admission is free. Come if you dare. The Crescent Park School will host Halloween Fun Night, Monday, Oct. 31, from 6 to 7 p.m. There'll be games and trick-or-treating for CPS students and pre-schoolers. Donations of candy are welcome. Burglars hit Bryant Pond Post Office

Reward of up to $10,000 offered

By WENDY HANSCOM

Burglars broke into the Bryant Pond Post Office last Tuesday evening, but local and federal investigators are not releasing much information about the case.

In addition to the post office break-in, beer and cigarettes were also stolen from Brau's Too sometime during the same night, and there was also an attempt to break into the Bryant Pond Village Store. In a possibly related matter, a car owned by a Greenwood woman was stolen from behind the Franklin Grange Hall.

The Oxford County Sheriff's Department and the U.S. Postal Inspection Service are investigating the post office break-in, which was discovered when Postmaster Frank Ettl opened up Wednesday morning.

Postal Inspector Donald Hotchkiss of Portland said at this time of-

CPS teacher Ellen Greeke honored with Presidential Award for Excellence

Crescent Park School teacher Ellen Greeke of Andover has received the Presidential Award for Excellence in Science and Math Teaching.

Greeke began working for SAD44 as a substitute bus driver in 1982.

She was then hired as a teacher's aide at Andover Elementary School.

CPS principal David Murphy told the School Board Monday evening that he encouraged Greeke to go back to college and get a teaching degree.

"I never imagined when I started working for the district as a substitute bus driver that I'd be standing here today with this honor," Greeke said.

Arctic disease claims Antarctic huskies

By WENDY HANSCOM

There's a sad follow-up to a story The Citizen published this spring.

In March, Kevin Slater and Polly Mahoney of Mahoneys Guide Service and Tony Simpson of Bethel organized an effort to bring the last 13 sled dogs in Antarctica to Newry.

In March, seven of the dogs were trucked from Newry to Chisasibi, Canada. From there, the dogs were mushed to their new home in the Inuit village of Inukjuak.

Six of the older dogs initially stayed behind in Newry, but in November they were flown to Inukjuak for retirement in a breeding program.

Unfortunately, however, things didn't work out quite the way organizers had hoped.

The huskies had been forced to leave Antarctica because of fear they might harbor viruses that could harm the native seal population. But, ironically, when the dogs relocated to Inukjuak, four of them apparently fell victim to a virus their own systems were unprepared to fight. The four older dogs all died within days of each other.

With the nearest vet more than a 1,000 miles away, according to Slater, the exact cause of death could not be determined.

One younger pregnant female also died, Slater said, apparently of complications due to the pregnancy.

But despite the five deaths, plans are still in the works to try and preserve the Antarctic dogs' lineage.

This fall Slater plans to travel to Inukjuak to bring the two remaining older dogs back to Newry. The female of the pair will soon come into heat, Slater said, and will probably be bred this fall.

One of the remaining six younger dogs is already pregnant, and a Montreal couple will fly to Hudson Bay and bring the dog south to stay with them for the winter, Slater said. The puppies might not otherwise survive the harsh Hudson Bay winter, he said.

If either dog produces a healthy litter, the pups will be returned to the Inuit village, Slater said.

"Normally we wouldn't be breeding dogs in their fall heat cycle," Slater said. "But everyone feels it's better to breed them now. Who knows how much longer they'll be around?"

SAD44

Sixth-graders to stay put

By WENDY HANSCOM

SAD44's sixth-graders won't be relocating any time soon.

The district's School Board accepted a recommendation Monday evening that leaves Andover sixth-graders in the town's elementary school and puts all other district sixth- through eighth-graders at Telstar Middle School.

The recommendation came from the board's Ad Hoc Committee on Middle School Philosophy. The committee has been studying the "middle school concept" and placement of the district's sixth-graders for about a year.

The committee termed the middle school an appropriate place for sixth-graders because they are developmentally more like seventh- and eighth-graders.

But the committee advised that Andover sixth-graders be left at AES because the "classes are of optimal size" and "community involvement in the education of the children and the high level of extra-curricular participation doesn't continue once the children leave Andover because the opportunity to be involved is diminished by the long distance."

Andover parents are allowed to petition the superintendent if they want their children to attend TMS.

The board's vote Monday doesn't necessarily settle the question of sixth-grade placement permanently.

It does, however, prohibit district administrators from moving sixth-graders around without the School Board's approval.

911 is due to start here the day after Halloween

Beginning Tuesday, Nov. 1, Oxford West Telephone Company will provide emergency 911 service for police, fire, and rescue services in the following telephone exchanges: Andover, 392-; Bethel, 824-; Locke Mills, 875-; North Norway, 527-; Roxbury Pond, 545-; West Bethel, 836-.

The basic 911 service will simply forward 911 calls to the Oxford County Sheriff's Department 743-telephone number, according to Dawna Cook, public affairs manager for Oxford West.

"We believe this will be a substantial benefit to our customers, their children, and tourists visiting the area. When faced with a life-threatening situation, eliminating the need to locate the proper emergency number to call can save seconds that could mean the difference between life and death," Cook said.

The 911 service will not be "Enhanced 911," where the caller's phone number and location are immediately identified. Currently, if a call is placed to 911, the call is forwarded to a NYNEX operator, who tries to forward the call to the proper emergency agency.

The Upton telephone exchange (533-) will not have 911 service until the phone network there is updated to a digital computerized sys-

SCHOOLS NEED MORE SUPPORT
LESS BLAME PLACING

To the Editor:

As one with a good deal of interest in the well-being of our community, I was saddened by the outburst in the Oct. 19 Citizen surrounding the recent Maine Educational Assessment testing results. Aside from the likelihood that the test is being given far more importance as an indicator of school success than it will ultimately prove itself entitled to, I was deeply concerned over the effects of the widespread blaming reported in the article.

Achieving publicly acceptable test results on any given day of a school year isn't simply a matter of getting students excited about that day's efforts; it is a matter of helping students expect more of themselves every day. Enhancing the self-expectations of any youthful population is a tremendously complicated and time-consuming task, particularly when the population is living with the confounding societal changes our children face almost daily. It is a job which requires the continuous challenge, encouragement and support of youngsters by all the adults who interact with them -- not just those who work with them in school. The school can serve as a major locus of that challenge, encouragement and support, but to enjoy the sort of success we'd all like for the community's youngsters, that school must be sustained by us all in ways which are much more subtle and meaningful than the simple provision of funding.

If the teachers who work with our children are to have the necessary energy and morale to interact constructively with a wide variety of students and their concerns each day, they must feel respected, appreciated and supported by the community whose youngsters they serve. A faculty faces burdens far beyond its substantial daily task when it is frequently under siege in public forum. It's likely that the community would be better served by the schools if we all refrained from damning the institution and those who serve it. Our leadership would be better used dealing constructively with the district's staff while expecting SAD44's management to act appropriately if it finds cases of demonstrated incompetence -- findings much too important to hang on the interpretation of scores on a state generated test.

There has been an alarming degradation in the quality of education in many large schools in recent years precisely because there has been a decline in coherent community support for those schools. Our community is still small enough to have a school system which cherishes many of the "old-fashioned" values so widespread in the community, but it will take the same sort of "old-fashioned" support of the schools for those values to receive the full attention they deserve.

A RANDOM ACT OF KINDNESS

To the Editor:

Late one fall evening as we drove to Sunday River to renew our season passes for the 10th year in a row, disaster struck. With 20 miles to go, the right front CV joint of our van disintegrated -- we could go no further.

Fortunately we pulled into Cisco and Poncho's Restaurant (formerly of Bethel, now at Snow Falls in West Paris. Although closed for the night we asked to use the phone and the owners Mike and Marlene willingly obliged. We had AAA, but that only helped the car, not our family. Sensing our dilemma they offered to drive us the remaining way. We accepted and proceeded to pile into their car. When we arrived not only did they refuse any reward but insisted on carrying our bags to the door.

Our good fortune didn't stop here. The following day the AAA tow truck driver arrived from Rumford. Although he'd been called in from the golf course, he was pleasant and helpful. I actually enjoyed the drive to Bethel, N.H.

"Practice random acts of kindness" is a noble reminder for those of us who don't like to think we live in a more civilized society to the south. But there are people like Mike and Marlene and the tow truck driver whose names I cannot remember in western Maine who practice these acts -- apparently on a regular basis.

THE V.F.W. NON-JOINERS

To the Editor:

I have heard all of the excuses of why someone cannot join the V.F.W., or any other organization. Most excuses are, "I'm a non-joiner," or "I don't have the time," or "I belong to so many other groups or clubs."

To those people I say, "Sorry, but you've missed the point completely." We don't expect each and every member to attend all of the meetings. The name of the game is numbers, to stand up and be counted. Our elected officials in Congress do take notice on issues affecting the veterans, when they are pressured to do so. How is this done? Part of your annual dues are spent by our national headquarters on lobbyists' fees to work in the best interest of all veterans who served honorably in our armed forces.

Some of you will say, "so what?" What is going to happen when you actually need the medical care or decide to apply for a disability at Togus and the hospital no longer exists? It wasn't very many years ago that the Canadian veterans had benefits like we do now. Now they don't.

What is the V.F.W. fighting to correct, you ask? Did you know that Russian officers who relocate to the United States are compensated to the tune of $25,000 a year per person, or Iranian P.O.W.s from the Gulf War are allowed to immigrate to the U.S. and, also, compensated, or that Haitians have completely taken over the use of three V.A. hospitals in Florida and have priority over our own veterans. This is the kind of mismanaged and misguided federal system that we are fighting to correct. Remember, we currently have a president that has never served in anything, so he has no idea of the sufferings or the hardships associated with the military. We know how deep our feelings run once you've worn the uniform and served God and country.

So, if you are approached and are asked to join the V.F.W., stand up and be counted, be proud, you earned it. Never forget, we represent you.

WE MUST AVOID GROWTH-FOR-THE-SAKE-OF-GROWTH

To the Editor:

I have been impressed by the quality of the work done by the Evans Notch Economic Diversification Project and its analysis of the area's economic climate. The notion of a resource center for businesses sounds interesting also. My only question would be how it could be designed so that it helps bring businesses to the community that will serve the community well. In other words, it may be a faulty assumption that any new business is a business that the community needs. There are many flaws to the "growth for the sake of growth" philosophy that seems to trap many towns. It might be wise to give some thought to this issue if it hasn't already been addressed.

WMNF DOING A FINE JOB

To the Editor:

I find Robert Perschel's letter (Citizen, Oct.19) in response to Leon Favreau's very misleading. I know Leon, and he has no desire to send a logging truck to every corner of this planet. In fact, Leon does not agree with Mr. Perschel that the timber industry is being subsidized. It was Mr. Perschel who wrote the article on forest subsidies. Leon does not disagree with all regulations. But the appeal process (appeals made to stop or delay a sale) has definitely added to the cost of administering a timber sale for the White Mountain National Forest.

Some sales are not meant to make money, but to improve the forest as a whole. Much the way a farmer weeds his garden.

Wildlife needs logging. The deer, moose, bear, etc., populations are directly related to forest regimentation. Wilderness in the Northeast is not like that in the West. The West has high mountain meadows -- a natural wildlife opening. The East does not.

After reading Mr. Perschel's letter, I am left with one huge question. What medicine do we get from the WMNF? Even if we do, we are not in danger of losing the forest. This is liberalism at its best. Mr. Perschel (without mentioning rain forest) is trying to make a direct link between the destruction of the rain forest of South America and the timber industry in the Northeast.

The WMNF is doing a fine job protecting and managing our forest. These men and women maintain hiking trails, wildlife habitat, multiple use areas, camp grounds and deer yards. All this, and still produce high quality sawlogs for lumber, furniture, and, yes, jobs. Leon is not in the minority. Mr. Perschel, You are.

In closing, I would like to invite those of you who feel our National Forest is in danger to take a walk. Let me show you some areas that were cut 20 years ago. You show me the erosion and destruction.

David Luxton
West Bethel

WE'VE ALREADY GOT TOO MANY WILDERNESS REGS

To the Editor:

I must comment, again, on another recently printed letter written by Robert T. Perschel, Northeast director of the Wilderness Society. In criticizing me, he says "at least he agrees that the (timber) program is a subsidy." Mr. Perschel must have had trouble reading my letter because I absolutely did not say that. I said the USFS was the only agency, other than the IRS, that brings in substantial funds to the U.S. Treasury.

Mr. Perschel goes on to defend harvesting regulations. My point was that existing regulations on government lands are excessive. Sitting in Boston, perhaps they don't appear to be so, but for those of us who have to live with them, they are.

Mr. Perschel says "wilderness areas 'produce' clean water, clean air, wildlife, fish, medicine, recreation opportunities, and natural laboratories for scientists." A properly managed forest can produce clean air, wildlife, and fish better than a "forever wild" forest. A managed area can also produce water that as just as good as that from a wilderness area and in larger quantities. I'd like to know how one gets medicines from plants growing in a wilderness area when any kind of harvesting in these areas is forbidden.

He does have a point, though about the provision of limited recreation opportunities. Those who wish for solitude and for an opportunity to see nature go through its life cycles without interference from man, a wilderness area can probably provide a better experience than a managed forest. Our problem is not so much with the existence of wilderness area but rather with the amount of land designated as such since harvesting and most forms of recreation other than hiking are prohibited. Several years ago, I heard (then) Wilderness Society Vice President Peter Emerson say (when we had 90 million acres of wilderness) that their goal was to double the area. The 95 million acres we currently have is excessive. Most people would find it difficult to tell the difference between a wilderness area and a mature stand of a multiple use forest.

Finally, Mr. Perschel may think he is reading my mind when he says I am eager "to send logging trucks into every corner of the planet." I never said that, and it certainly is not one of my goals. The Wilderness Society needs to spend more time studying proven scientific evidence and less time promoting myths and religious feelings and aesthetics.

CONTESTS SUPPORT SAFER FAMILIES

To the Editor:

October is National Domestic Violence Awareness Month. Safer Families Program, a domestic violence program serving Oxford County, is supporting this effort by handing out purple ribbons in recognition of the men, women, and children who have died as a result of family violence. The purple ribbons are also worn by men and women across the country to celebrate the survivors. In recognition of this issue, the Sunday River Brewing Company is hosting and sponsoring a Pumpkin Carving Contest and a Costume Charity Ball.

The Pumpkin Carving Contest will be held on Sunday, Oct. 30 and we are asking for $5 donations at the door. People will be provided with a pumpkin but must bring their own carving tools. The judging begins at 7 p.m. and there are prizes for all the winners. The Costume Charity Ball will be held on Halloween, Oct. 31, from 7:30 until closing and we are asking for a $5 donation per person. There will be live music, prizes, and hopefully some pretty funky costumes to check out. The judging begins at 9. The Safer Families Program and the Sunday River Brewing Company would like to thank all the local businesses who donated pumpkins and prizes to these two events.

Both events are fundraising efforts to benefit the Safer Families Program and also nice opportunities for friends and family to get together and have a great time. If you have any questions, please call 824-4253 or 1-800-520-4220.

CAMERON SUPPORTERS SAY WHY

To the Editor:

The towns of District 70, Rumford, Milton, and Woodstock, need the leadership that Rob Cameron will bring to the Maine State Legislature. High on Rob's list of issues to be addressed are improving the economy and creating jobs for this area of the state. Based on his experiences as a farmer and small business operator, Rob Cameron promotes favorable policies and regulations that enable small businesses to prosper and grow. As an employee in the forest products industry, Rob also understands the need to foster a business climate that allows industries to operate efficiently and profitably in this state. At the same time, Rob Cameron balances the need to improve and preserve our environment with the need for commercial prosperity.

Rob Cameron is a strong advocate for education reform. He is a parent with a child in the school system and knows the value of education. All of our children are entitled to receive an education that will maximize their potential. Rob will continue his commitment to ensure that the educational system of today will provide our children with the knowledge and necessary skills to enter the work world of tomorrow.

We need people like Rob Cameron to volunteer their services to the legislature. It's time to get new people in state government who will be responsive to the needs of the residents of this area. Please join us in casting your vote for Rob Cameron on Nov. 8.

THIS WEEK AT THE
Moses Mason House

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the next monthly meeting will be held on Thursday, Nov. 3 in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Featured during the program portion of the meeting will be a slide presentation by Randall H. Bennett, curator of collections of the Bethel Historical Society, on the Richardson Lakes area. Mr. Bennett is currently editing a history of the Lakes by the late Herbert Shirrels for publication in 1995.

Much gratitude is due volunteers Rodney Howe, Tom Wheeler, and Justin Gilbert for all their help in clearing up trees removed this fall from the grounds of the Dr. Moses Mason House.

From society member Herbert Adams, a state representative from Portland, who spoke last week at the 150th anniversary of the birth of C.A. Stephens comes additional data on Stephens' connection with Bethel. Edwin Champlin wrote in the "Lewiston Journal" (unfortunately undated) the following regarding Stephens: "I met him for the first time in Bethel, Maine, at the Chandler House on the hill very early in the seventies and had the strange experience of coming in contact with an energetic, enthusiastic, keen-eyed, and sociable traveler. He was about to start for Lake Umbagog on a woodcraft, and had invited me to go with him. Without half realizing what a preparation such a trip would require, I had come from Rhode Island, my boyhood home, to meet him on the day he planned to leave Bethel, having come from his home at Norway Lake. He was hustling for all he was worth to get away, and I saw at once that I had no preparation for such an accompaniment, and therefore abandoned the trip, returning to Westerly via South Paris, where I spent the night. I had missed the good time I was anticipating, but I had realized the pleasure of meeting a rare man, and ever since I have felt the strength of his personality. A wiry, quick motioned, initiative individual, he was the very person to head an expedition to the woods, and could have given me a score of points in outdoor life had I been ready for the outing."

The Chandler House stood near where the Bethel Inn does today. Edwin Champlin's claim to fame is unclear today, but he like many others must have been a reader of "Youth's Companion," one of the most popular magazines of the late 19th and early 20th century publications in the United States, where many of Stephens' stories appeared.

James Rivers dumping less dioxin

BERLIN, N.H.--James River officials report that as of June 1 there are no longer any measurable amounts of dioxin going into the river from the mill. The company has switched from using chlorine bleach for bleaching pulp to chlorine dioxide, which company officials say does not produce dioxin. By May of 1995, Berlin officials also expect to have stopped the flow of most of the sewerage the town has mistakenly been putting into the Androscoggin River. An error in pipe connections made several years ago during a sewerage upgrade resulted in sewage going directly into the river instead of into the treatment plant. Berlin officials say they're sure that 99 percent of the main line connections are now fixed.

Library up for historic register

WOODSTOCK--The Whitman Memorial Library will be considered by the Maine Historic Preservation Commission for nomination to the National Register of Historic Places. The commission will consider the nomination at its Oct. 28 meeting in Woolwich.

Highway truck damages town garage

ANDOVER--The town's road foreman ran a town truck into the Town Garage recently, causing about $1,300 of damage. Road Foreman Wilbur Chenev said he had been loading culverts on the town's large truck at the garage, and because of the sun in his eyes he hit the garage with the truck, damaging four panels in the door. The town's insurance policy has a $1,000 deductible, according to selectmen.

Sidewalk work complete

WEST PARIS--Town selectmen announced last week that the sidewalk project on Church Street is complete. Removal of the old cement sidewalk began two weeks ago, and the final touches on the new surface were done Wednesday. New curbing was also installed.

Board approves brook bridge

NEWRY--The town Planning Board will allow Robert McAllister to build a bridge over Gardner Brook in the Bear River Valley, as long as he gets state Department of Environmental Protection approval. The bridge abutments will be placed in exposed ledges and will disturb no soil. The bridge will lead to a private residence.

Paris voters amend curfew

PARIS--Voters here amended the town's curfew ordinance Monday evening. The ordinance now calls for a curfew of 10 p.m. for children 14 and under. For youths 15 and older the curfew was set at 11 p.m. Fines will be levied after juveniles have received appropriate warning, according to police officials.

Truck rolls on Hotel Hill Road

NEWRY--A New Hampshire man received minor injuries Thursday night when his vehicle rolled over on the Hotel Hill Road at Sunday River Ski Resort. Andrew Pearsall, 22, of Richmond, N.H. went off the right side of the road on a curve, rolled over, and the truck landed on its roof in a ditch near the resort's Welcome Center. Pearsall was transported to Stephens Memorial Hospital and treated for a concussion, contusions and facial lacerations, and released. The vehicle was totaled, according to police.

Maine 14th healthiest state

LEWISTON--A recent survey by Northwestern National Life Insurance Co. ranked Maine as 14th from the top in health. New Hampshire came in first, and Louisiana ranked lowest. On the list of tobacco use, however, Maine is amongst the 10 worst states, according to state health officials.

Evergreen Valley planning expansion

EAST STONEHAM--Evergreen Valley Associates is planning a development of 600 to 650 residential house lots, ranging in size from 1 to 3 acres. Developers say the project will be marketed for its recreational access to local ski areas, the White Mountain National Forest and a golf course, which will be upgraded from the existing nine holes to 18. Plans also include other recreational offerings and a marina with access to Kezar Lake. Development would take place over the next 10 years. Evergreen Valley project neighbors are already lodging complaints about the effect the project might have on the environment and the quality of life in the area. Project developers do not plan to reopen ski trails at the mountain, according to published reports.

County to buy lake road

SOUTH PARIS--The Oxford County Commissioners voted unanimously last week to buy a privately-owned portion of the South Arm Road for $61,000 from the Seven Island Land Co. The road will help provide public access to a proposed state park and boat landing on Mooselookmeguntic Lake. The nearly four-mile stretch of dirt road leads to 5,000 acres of Maine Public Reserve Land in Richardsontown Township. Another seven miles of county-owned road would be upgraded to provide better access.

Legion ball playoffs coming to Zone 3

HARRISON--The 1995 Maine American Legion baseball playoffs will be held at the new RADAR Sports complex in Harrison. From 1925 to 1992, Legion playoff games were held at Togus. For the past two years, the games have been played elsewhere. Harrison is part of Zone 3, which includes the local team sponsored by the Locke Mills Legion Post. Playoff games will be held in Harrison on Aug. 5 - 9, 1995.

NOVA to buy another bus

RUMFORD--The Northern Oxford Vocational Area Board of Directors gave NOVA director Dewaine Craig permission to solicit bids for a new bus for the 1995-96 school year. Craig said he is still waiting for the bus he ordered for the 1994-95 school year. NOVA will also research if FM band two-way radios would help improve communications with some of the NOVA students working off-campus harvesting wood. The radios would cost about $500 each, Craig said, and NOVA could use SAD44's or 43's radio band.

NAPLES--Five Lake Region Middle School students were recently suspended from school for two to five days for possessing or ingesting caffeine pills. Students had attempted to get high from ingesting a combination of caffeine pills and cough syrup, according to school officials.

500 jobs coming to Lewiston/Auburn

LEWISTON--A Georgia-based medical management company plans to expand its operations in Lewiston, creating 500 new jobs over the next two years. The company will bring the state's first "quality center" training program to the city to provide skilled workers. Medaphis Physicians Services Corp. plans to expand into a new building at the Spare Time Business and Recreation Park. The company has agreed to a 10-year lease on a $3.5 million building to be built by Lewiston Raceways Inc. Plans call for hundreds of entry-level employees to receive customized training developed by Central Maine Technical College in Auburn. State taxpayers will underwrite the training costs. Medaphis provides management services for 600 hospitals and 9,600 doctors offices.

From the Bethel Police log:

Dogs bother man's pets; school reports theft

On Wednesday, Oct. 19, a West Bethel resident told police his neighbors' dogs had attacked him and his dogs, and that on Oct. 15, the same dogs had chased his cat. The man told police he had spoken with his neighbors, who agreed to keep the dogs under control, but he wanted a report on file.

On Thursday, Oct. 20, a Telstar Middle School official reported a portable compact disk player had been stolen from the Telstar auditorium. The disk player was a prize in a school contest. The official gave police the names of two students seen in the auditorium before the theft.

In other recent police news, on Monday, Oct. 24, a Grover Hill woman reported a "Peeping Tom" on her property. Police spoke to the man, who denied trespassing on his neighbor's property. Twice the same day, and on Oct. 21 and 22, police also responded to reports of juveniles loitering near Bethel Pizza.

On Sunday, Oct. 23, a woman turned in a wallet she found on Mason Street, which police mailed to the owner. The same day a Locke Mills man reported that while his vehicle was parked at either Sunday River Brewery or Suds Pub the doors had been dented. The man said it looked like they'd been kicked. Damage was estimated at $1,000.

On Saturday, Oct. 22, a West Bethel villager reported an ATV in the roadway.

On Thursday, Oct. 20, the Oxford County Sheriff's Office asked Bethel police to respond to a possible plane crash at Sunday River Ski Resort. Police determined the report was false and spoke to a man they termed "very intoxicated," who had rolled his truck over into a brook. Police waited until OCSO deputies arrived and then left the scene.

Phone bills going out late

By WENDY HANSCOM

If you haven't received a phone bill for September or October, you're not alone.

Oxford West is experiencing data processing problems with their billing system. The problem has delayed the mailing of September and October telephone bills.

The company recently acquired eight GTE exchanges. The problems result from incorporating GTE's billing system into that of Oxford County Telephone & Telegraph Company, a company spokesman said.

The company intends to mail telephone bills once they have been corrected. Since September, both outside consultants and company data processing employees have been working to correct the bills.

"We are hopeful that we will be able to produce the September bills within the next two weeks," Cook said.

Cook said customers who paid their last GTE bill in full will not be assessed late charges.

Oxford West is offering two suggestions to customers: 1) Once the telephone bill arrives, customers can call the business office to make deferred payment arrangements, if necessary. Arrangements made during this time period will not affect the customer's credit status; or 2) Customers can estimate monthly charges and send payment to Oxford West Telephone Company, P.O. Box 128, Buckfield, ME 04220. Customers should include their name and telephone number with payments.

"We apologize to our customers for this unfortunate situation," Cook said.

GREENWOOD HISTORICAL

The Greenwood Historical Society met Wednesday evening, Oct. 5, for their regular meeting. Some of the business was postponed until the next meeting when the attendance is expected to be larger.

Lee Mills; new trustees, Heywood Sawyer and Ellsworth Hathaway; other trustees are Phyllis Coolidge, Edith Morey and Robert Keniston.

Burglars

Officials are not releasing how burglars got in, or what was taken or damaged during the burglary.

"We have to be selfish about the information," he said, "because if details of the break-in come back to us from the public, then we know they're not just blowing smoke. It leaves the door open for people who have information to call us."

The mail was not tampered with, according to OCSO Cpt. James Miclon.

Investigators are following up several leads, Hotchkiss said, and postal officials plan to offer a reward of up to $10,000 to anyone with information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons involved in the post office break-in.

Breaking into a post office is a federal offense, Hotchkiss said, and the culprits could face prosecution by either state or federal authorities. Breaux's Too was broken into the same night, according to Miclon. Burglars made off with about $300 in beer and cigarettes. Some of the beer was recovered, he said. Entry was gained through a rear window, Miclon said, which caused about $200 damage to the store.

Breaux's Too was also burglarized about two weeks ago. A large amount of cash was stolen in that incident, which police are still investigating.

There was also a failed attempt to get into the Village Store Tuesday evening, Miclon said.

All potential evidence at the two businesses was dusted for fingerprints, Miclon said. Fingerprints found will be processed by the FBI and state forensic labs, he said.

A car theft reported Wednesday may also be related to the case, Miclon said.

A 1977 Buick LeSabre, owned by Pamela Moody of Greenwood, was stolen sometime before 11 p.m.

from behind the Franklin Grange Hall.

The car was undamaged and found off the Heikkinen Road around 7 a.m. Wednesday. It was dusted for fingerprints as well, Miclon said.

Postal officials are encouraging anyone with information about the case to call the OCSO at 800-482-7433 or 743-4252.

Miclon is distributing flyers asking for information about the Tuesday break-ins, and about other recent break-ins in West Paris. Police think the burglaries in West Paris and Bryant Pond might be connected.

"We have some suspects," Miclon said. "We're trying to put the pieces together. We're not looking for someone who's willing to testify. We just need them to point us in the right direction, where the merchandise might have gone or anything."

Greeke

Greeke and her husband Robert will travel to Washington, D.C. this spring to officially accept the award.

The couple will also participate in a week of yet-to-be-planned activities, according to a letter she received from a presidential assistant.

Greeke is a former Lewiston Sun-Journal correspondent. She has also taught at the Woodstock Elementary School and has been at CPS for three years.

CPS DEDICATED--Leo G. Martin, state commissioner of education, speaks at Sunday's dedication of the new Crescent Park School. Martin was one of several speakers who congratulated the district on its newest school. SAD44 School Board chairman Margaret Hand thanked friends of CPS, past and present board members and former SAD44 superintendent Dewaine Craig for making the new school a reality. Superintendent Ronald Jenkins paid tribute to long-time Bethel teacher Ethel Bisbee, CPS principal David Murphy thanked the CPS/PTA members for their dedication and announced that the school's kindergarten wing will be dedicated later as the Ethel Bisbee Memorial Kindergarten Wing. Rick Charette entertained with his original children's music. State Rep. Alvin Barth, R-Bethel, presented the school with a state flag which was flown over the State House in Augusta. The opening ceremonies included a flag salute led by members of the Mundt-Allen American Legion Post of Bethel and an invocation by the Rev. Jean Bass of the West Parish Congregational Church, and the Rev. Nathan Seckinger of the Bethel Alliance Church gave the closing benediction.

Silver Bullet to speed up this season

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Silver Bullet Express will log fewer but faster runs this season, according to Sunday River Transportation, which runs the ski-train service.

The skiway subsidiary plans to run the ski train between Portland and Bethel on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays, and seven days a week during the Christmas and Easter vacation weeks, according to Chip Vicary, Sunday River promotions, events and entertainment manager.

During the past ski season (the ski train's first) it also ran on Mondays and Thursdays, but ridership was poor, Vicary said, and those runs will be eliminated this season.

The length of the train ride is expected to shorten by as much as 20 minutes this season, according to Jeff Frost, vice president for operations of the Sunday River Transportation.

The speed-up was made possible by improvements to the St. Lawrence & Atlantic Railroad's track, Frost said. The exact amount of the gain won't be certain, he said, until the train has made a few trips over the tracks.

The morning run from Portland is now scheduled to leave at 6:50 (20 minutes later than last season) and arrive in Bethel at 8:45.

The return run will leave Bethel at 4:30 p.m. and arrive in Portland at 6:45 (45 minutes earlier than last year).

The return time to Portland was moved up to accommodate riders' requests, Frost said.

Last year approximately 14,000 riders took the ski train, but Sunday River Transportation still lost money on the operation (Sunday River officials have declined to say how much).

But according to Les Otten, the skiway remains committed to the service. Otten has said from the beginning that it would be at least three years before the ski train became profitable.

Field hockey playoffs

Telstar championship quest ends early

By WENDY HANSCOM

Telstar's defense was top notch in Friday's Western Maine Class C playoff game, but the Rebels just couldn't put together a successful attack, as the field hockey team lost 1-0 to Yarmouth.

The No. 7 seeded Rebels held off the No. 2 Clippers for 60 minutes of regular play. But after consistently battering the Rebel defense, Yarmouth finally managed to score with five minutes and two seconds left to play in overtime.

The game, played on a wet field under a bank of dark gray clouds, was fairly physical. Whistles blew frequently as balls flew too high, and a few players had hard-driven drives bounce off their legs.

Several plays were also blown dead because both teams kept tangling the ball up in their feet.

The teams seemed evenly matched in the first half. The Rebel halfbacks fed their front line the ball with solid passes, but the attackers kept getting turned back.

Telstar's defense kept the Clippers at bay throughout most of the first half, preventing them from launching any serious drives.

But by the second half the Clippers clearly had the upper hand. The Rebel offense only made it into Yarmouth's circle once in the final 30 minutes of regular play.

But the young Rebel defense managed to continue to drive Yarmouth away from Telstar's defensive zone, despite several Clipper penalty corners.

Before overtime play started, Coach Gail Wight told the team "We've played enough defense, let's play offense, get the ball and take it down to their circle."

But the Rebels couldn't get control, and Yarmouth finally put one past Telstar goalie Jessie Wight, who made seven saves. Yarmouth's goalie didn't have to make a save.

The Rebels ended their season with a 7-6 record.

Playing their final game Friday were seniors: co-captain Amy Patten, Elise Bennett, Koral Smith, Shye Buck, Angie Lovejoy, co-captain Lori Davis and Jamie Orrok.

There should be plenty of returning Rebels next year on the young team. Wight, Mandy McInnis, Jana Mason, Monica Rolfe, Katie Mulen, Beth Howe, Sarah Richardson, Dani Littlehale, Liza Fyrberg, Megan Meisner and more underclassmen are all expected to take the field for Telstar next season.

TMS wins first playoff game

The Telstar Middle School field hockey team won a semifinal Sandy/Andy League playoff game Monday, beating Tripp 3-0.

The girls are scheduled to play the championship game today (Wednesday) at Telstar against Mt. Valley at 3:30 p.m.

Site work could start as early as this week on the two buildings, but they are unlikely to be completed before February at the earliest, according to Heinie Merrill, Bethel Station's general managing partner.

"We just missed a great opportunity -- it's been the best October for building ever," Merrill said.

He also conceded that with the cost of winter construction running 10 to 15 percent higher than during warmer months, the partners might decide to hold off on any new work until the 1995 construction season.

the funding to build it is expected to come from federal enhancement funds.

The town has applied for a grant seeking those funds, but the grant application must still compete with other such applications, and even the status of the federal funds is uncertain -- due to Maine's decision to suspend implementation of the federally mandated auto emissions testing program.

The developers currently have no plans to pay for the path themselves if the federal money is unavailable. "It's not in our plans to do that," Merrill said, "but I guess we'd try to find a way to do it."

During the public debate on the project, pedestrian access to the project was an issue often raised by residents concerned that Bethel Station would become a world unto itself, detached from the existing village and draining the economic life from Main Street.

In part to meet those concerns, the developers initially proposed two key pedestrian access points, a track-level foot crossing at the bottom of Mechanic Street and an attractive pedestrian bridge over the tracks at the bottom of Elm Street.

But that bridge has now been at least temporarily dropped from the project, Merrill told the town selectmen last week, because it would be too steep to meet the requirements of the Americans with Disabilities Act.

He said there was a possibility that once the Mechanic Street crossing was complete, ADA administrators might accept it as an alternative crossing point for handicapped people and allow the footbridge to be built as originally planned.

And the train station that the footbridge was to have connected with has itself been greatly scaled back. The station was to have been a major focus of pedestrian and commercial activity, but because it is to be built with grant money, its possible uses are restricted by governmental guidelines.

The present station plan is less than half the size of the original concept, and Merrill said he is still working with regulators to determine what types of activities can take place there.

NEW TOWN FACILITIES--Work is moving ahead briskly on the new Bethel Town Garage (left) at the Airport Industrial Park. The new facility is scheduled to be ready for use by December, according to Bethel Station developer Heinie Merrill. The town's new sand/salt shed (to the right behind the garage framework) will be ready for its sand pile by early next month, Merrill said. (Photo by Michael Daniels) building (the "Casablanca Building").

Site work could start as early as this week on the two buildings, but they are unlikely to be completed before February at the earliest, according to Heinie Merrill, Bethel Station's general managing partner.

"We just missed a great opportunity -- it's been the best October for building ever," Merrill said.

He also conceded that with the cost of winter construction running 10 to 15 percent higher than during warmer months, the partners might decide to hold off on any new work until the 1995 construction season.

The project received a further setback recently, when the initial construction bids on the train station came in higher than expected.

Merrill has since negotiated with the lowest bidder to attempt to come up with a workable, and affordable, plan, he said. He was scheduled to present the results of those negotiations to the Maine Department of Transportation Tuesday.

If MDOT approves the revised plan, he said, the train station platform could be ready to receive passengers by Dec. 26 (see related story, page 4).

Town work moving ahead

Construction is already well underway on two new buildings, but not in Bethel Station.

Bethel's new sand/salt shed and town garage are currently going up at a lot in the Airport Industrial Park.

The two buildings, built at the developers' expense, were part of the payment for the key, 6.2-acre parcel of town-owned land.

Merrill said the sand/salt shed will be ready for use by early next month (it will still need to be sided), and the town garage is scheduled to be ready by December.

Financial interest still strong

The three general partners say that despite the start-up delays and the loss of a year's potential income, Bethel Station remains financially viable.

"It's absolutely going ahead," said Grant Wilson, a Massachusetts investor who is the third partner in the venture.

Wilson said investor interest in the project is strong. The three general partners are currently forming a limited partnership of investors to underwrite the cost of the project.

Wilson declined to say how much money the limited partnership is expected to generate, but he said the venture "has attracted the level of investor interest we deem necessary to achieve a critical mass."

In fact, Wilson said, the delays have worked to the project's advantage, since they have allowed interest (and publicity) to build.

In addition to the funds to be raised by the limited partnership, the project has available a $5- to $10-million line of credit with the Bank of Boston, Merrill said.

No renters yet

Merrill acknowledged that no commercial businesses have signed up to rent space in the project, but he attributed that largely to the uncertainty over when the space would be available.

"We have tentative commitments from retail users," he said, "but they depend on a commitment from me to deliver."

Wilson said that potential renters have not been scared off by the high (approximately $12 per square foot) Bethel Station rents.

"The interest level is higher than it's ever been," he said, "and the lease rates we have discussed are completely in line with our projections."

But one frequently mentioned potential tenant won't be coming to Bethel. Merrill said that L.L. Bean was no longer actively considering a Bethel Station outdoors center.

"What we talked about them doing here, they've decided to do in Freeport," he said.

Norman K. Ferguson, Jr. MAINE SENATE

We can build a bright future. A future that provides us, our children and our grandchildren with opportunity. We will have to work for it. And we will have to change the way things are done in Augusta.

We owe it to our children to assure them of the best education we can afford to provide them. Not just in grade school and high school. They should be able to get a good technical education at our Technical Colleges. Or at our University of Maine campuses.

We can be proud of what we have in western Maine - our natural beauty and our people.

Let's change what we must. Preserve what we cannot afford to lose. Stop partisan bickering and start bipartisan cooperation.

By LOUISE LORING

Here we are into the throes of late fall, and as Coleridge put it: "The mellow year is hastening to its close/The little birds have almost left their last/Their small notes whither in the dreary blast/That swirl-piped harbinger of early snows."

Early snows -- early spring -- of this I would dare hope, but we have a lot of territory to cover before that. I would advise: "Do not join the grumblers!" (Yes, I am apt to be the first one to do so.) I need to start counting the blessing life has given me along my way.

Grumblers/grumble when they're too busy/grumble when life is too boring/grumble when it's raining or snowing/when it's too hot, et cetera. Generally out of sorts and most of the time about their entire lot!

Instead, let's enjoy each day as it comes -- never looking backward or anticipating bad news for the future. Each day, then, lends itself to beauty as does each bead of dew drops upon a beautiful rose. Soon enough the rose will open and sweet blessing will be yours and mine to hold, whatever the weather, whatever our lot. So enjoy November each day in technique unto its own, and by the time Thanksgiving does roll around our blessings will be as bountiful as the harvest. With Peace--

Linda Smith entertained her brother Asa Sessions and wife Ginny from Freetown, Ind., the week of Fryeburg Fair. While here they also traveled to Land's End, L.L. Bean and Fort Pomphrey.

On Oct. 13, Linda took Rose Taylor to her doctor's appointment, and on the weekend of Oct. 15-16 she took her children to Lewiston "Christmas-wish" shopping at Wal-Mart. While there they ran into Lea and Anna Belanger and friends of Berlin, who were also shopping there.

Linda also attended the Grand Opening of the new Wal-Mart store in Oxford, which she says is very nice.

On the 9th of October, Kathy Corriville Cole was the lucky winner of a huge jackpot at the K of C. Hall bingo game held in Berlin, N.H.

On the 16th, I had a caller (whose name I neglected to get) from a woman and her daughter who used to rent cabins from Leo and Anna Belanger in the late '70s, when Daniels Construction was doing work for Boise in Rumford, I didn't remember her right away until she mentioned she used to do a bit of crocheting. Then I had a "flashback" of her sitting at the "bar," with her then eight- or nine-year-old daughter, indulging in coffee while hands were busy with fancy work. These people hailed from Texas, and after all these years on their return visit were saddened to see the "store" in the state it now sits in, as are all of us.

Tammy Kottahous-Buckley and two children were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Yves Coriveau on the weekend of the 16th.

Speaking of stores, the little "Schoolhouse Store" on the upper end of town has closed for the season and will not reopen until next May.

Tammy Rice celebrated her 19th birthday with cake and ice cream at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Ferris. Present were Ed and Peggy Rice and Justin, "J.R." and Johnny Sweetser, and Lisa Thurston.

Peggy Rice has temporarily gone on days at her work at the Bethel Furniture Stock factory.

The Gilead Fire Department was called out to a trailer-truck fire on Route 2 on the 17th, which was loaded with chips.

(Mrs. Loring passed away last week. The staff of The Citizen extend our condolences to her family and friends.

The Calvary Congregational Church will be hosting an evening visit with guest speaker Ernest Klassen, cofounder of the German Bible Institute and past member of the NBBI Faculty. He will be sharing interesting stories of his travels and challenging all with the word of God on Saturday, Oct. 29, at 7 p.m.

The sixth-grade class at Andover Elementary School invite all ages to tour their haunted house on Friday, Oct. 28, from 6-7 p.m. at the school. During the evening a dance will be held for students in grades 4-6 from 6 to 9 p.m. All are encouraged to wear costumes.

The Andover Public Library hosts Story Hour every Thursday afternoon, 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. for children in grades K-3. Wendy Green and Terri Williams always welcome volunteers, snacks are provided. Those that wish may have their children ride the bus from school to the library. The school must receive permission slips from parents to do so. Please note on your slip if you wish to give permission for the child to ride the bus every Thursday.

Congratulations to Shelly and Luke Mailhot of Merrimack, N.H., who are announcing the birth of their first child, Zachary Michael, who was born on Sept. 26, weighing in at 7 lb, 12 oz. The maternal grandparents are Gary and Patty Marston of Andover and Nancy and Matt Brooks of Phippsburg. Paternal grandparents are Reale and Jeanne Mailhot of Connecticut.

Mrs. Walter Jodrey received word of the death of her nephew, Francis Remington Jr., on Oct. 23. He was the son of Francis and the late Cecilia Campbell Remington who resided in Lowland, Colo.

Tammy Poole has spent several weeks visiting with her father, Floyd Emerson. While here her daughter Medea, a junior at Yale, joined them for several days. Tammy and her husband have recently relocated to Valrico, Fla. from California.

Happy Birthday wishes to former resident Anne Fox, who celebrated her 94th birthday recently.

East Stoneham

By ELEANOR NELSON

Kate Flynn has a new great-grandson named Eric Joseph Mooney, and he weighed 10 pounds, has red hair and looks just like his dad, and all are doing just fine. They live in Wilmington, Mass.

The Knight Riders Snowmobile Club will not meet on Nov. 8 (second Tuesday) due to the election. They will meet on Nov. 15 (the third Tuesday).

The Stoneham Republicans went to their monthly meeting and supper at the Grange Hall at Bryant Pond. It was a good baked ham supper and good meeting afterward. Several candidates gave short speeches, and Susan Collins had a representative there who spoke for her. I believe she is the first woman in Maine to run for governor. There were about 50 people there from the surrounding areas.

By the way -- all you Stoneham Republicans (or anyone) -- if you want to vote (and you really should) and don't have a way to get to the polls, you can please call 928-2324 or 928-2163 and someone will come by and get you there on Nov. 8.

Matthew Nelson and Dale went over the weekend to the Pineland Center in New Gloucester to the Cub and Boy Scout Camporee. Dale and Kitty Nelson attended the Cub Scouts masters' training session there on Saturday. Matthew would like to thank all and everyone who bought popcorn from him and helped him to make his quota and to reach his goal in the Cub Scouts' popcorn sales. It's a lot of work and a lot of fun, and they learn a lot from it.

Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War 1861-1865 Hannah F. Richardson Tent 19 -- don't forget the meeting and supper on Wednesday, Oct. 26, Stoneham does casseroles or salads and Bryant Pond does pies, etc. This will be inspection night, so hopefully everyone that can will be there.

On Monday, Oct. 17, there was a meeting at the Stoneham Fire Station regarding plans made up by a group called the Evergreen Valley Associates. There were about 60 people there to hear what Joe Casilino, president of the Evergreen Valley Association had to say about this business. The plan calls for the golf course, cross-country skiing trails and hiking. Also, the plans would feature approximately 600-800 mostly secondary residential home sites on the site of the former Evergreen Valley Resort area. The land is still owned by Bob Bahre. The group plans to sell spring water in bulk form to area bottlers and distributors. They are still doing research on this project.

It was a nice time, thanks to Barbara and Carl.

Upton

Norman and Marion Scruton of Washington State are spending a vacation with the Bill Wights of Newry. Thursday, they called on friends in Upton. Mr. Scruton was a pastor in the Upton Church for a few years during the early '40s.

Arthur and Viola Johnson of Mercer were in the area recently and visited me at Heritage Farm.

Ralph and Margaret Schnur of Colo, Iowa, stopped by for a pleasant reacquaintance during their vacation in Maine.

Harvey Small escaped to his camp on Backstreet recently. Since he retired as a teacher, he's been busier and it was his first trip up since May.

Someone asked why I do not celebrate Halloween. I might ask why celebrate such an ugly holiday. At Christmas time, homes and yards are dressed up so beautifully one does not need to embrace the origin to be thrilled by it. On Halloween, decorations are rags hung on trees which resemble diapers hung by a corner, skeletons, ugly faces made by gouging out pumpkins, and symbols of murder, cannibalism and violence. The fun part of kids' parties is tainted by games designed to frighten. Worse yet, these are reflections of the reality of witchcraft churches and practices in increasing numbers in the U.S.A. where children are kidnapped and horribly abused. Halloween. Who needs it!

The trees are bare. The leaves are gone. Nature tells us, don't despair. Tamaracks in golden splendor mingle now with darker cousins. And stride across the hillsides among the russet leaves still lingering. The forest floor, clothed in thick confetti, Resplendent under now bared limbs.

A grove of white birches Stand tall and elegant. No longer hidden. All this and mountain ash Are yours to enjoy through Grafton Notch.

So. Woodstock

By ANDREA WING

My sympathy goes out to Vince and Beverly Stevens, and families, on the death of Vince's mother Dorothy Stevens. Beverly has returned from a visit with her daughter Stacy and husband in Kentucky. Lee Dean also went along to visit her granddaughter.

Pete, Laurene and Dana Appleby stopped by one night this week. Pete told me he has a new dog, an English Red Tick (coon hound), and his name is Bandit.

Delsey Andrews and children have moved to West Paris. They have been staying with Pete and Laurene for a while.

Troy Ryerson has returned home from South Carolina where he has been working on construction.

John Dow is coming up from Lewiston to spend the weekend with his grandparents, Pete and Laurene Appleby.

Pete Appleby said they have been painting on their home recently. Pete also said that the road Perkins Valley has been improved greatly lately by the Woodstock road crew.

Jennice Cole has returned to work at the shoe shop in Norway. Jenni had an accident where she was burned quite badly and has been out of work for quite a while. I'm glad to hear she's coming along now.

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society reports that K. Whitman, head of Oxford County Emergency Preparedness, will speak at the November meeting. Mr. Billings has given some postcards to the society. The society finds value in the events and central figures of history. They feel we can learn from them. The society uses the past as a foundation upon which to build.

Joyce and Ellsworth Hathaway have returned from a well-deserved week's vacation. Ellsworth gets bright and early to get his mill running for the day. Harry Hutchins helps Ellsworth much of the time.

Louise Tetley and Yours Truly were at the Rumford Community House Health Center one day last week before Louise left for Florida. We visited with Amy and Roger Hanscom, who were sunning themselves on the patio and looking very good.

Services were performed at the Newry Community Church on Sunday, Oct. 16, at 9 a.m. with Pastor Rodney Hanscom at the pulpit and daughter Nancy at the organ. The Message of the Day was: "The A.B.C.'s of salvation," from scriptures in Luke 13:1-5 when Jesus said, "I tell you, nay; but except ye shall all likewise perish unless ye repent."

Guests of Bill and Sylvia Wight the weekend of Oct. 15 were: Steve and Marlene Wight; Stan and Andrea Lucien; John and Becky Colanino; Sue Lee and Rachel Pooler from Old Town; Jenny Wight from University of New Hampshire; John Gray from St. Johnsbury, Vt.; and Ginny Robertson of Carmel, Calif. Daughter Gretchen, husband Bill and daughter Melissa joined the group for the Saturday night supper.

Bill and Sylvia were in St. Louis, Mo., recently where they attended the 79th Division reunion of the servicemen.

Franklin Grange 124 met Monday, Oct. 17, with 32 present. A regular meeting and Halloween party were held. The charter was draped for Mildred Delapa, who would have been a 50-year member in November. She was a former school teacher at W.H.S. It was voted to give a donation to Jessica Pike who is attending a future business leaders convention. Members were reminded of the supper to be held the next evening. The program was as follows: opening thought, Anna Swan; song by all; poem, Althea Fish; songs by Harry Boyer; poem, Anna Woodworth; Dot Canwell whistled a couple tunes; poem, Dot Canwell; game by all; mystery march; closing thought; closing song. The next meeting, Nov. 7, will be about Veterans' Day. Please bring tickets on Thanksgiving basket plus something for the basket.

The Woodstock-Greenwood Senior Citizens will meet on Thursday, Nov. 3, for a meeting at the Grange Hall with dinner put on by the W.H.S. alumni. The program will be "Trip to Alaska," by Edwin Howe.

Sympathy is extended to Kathleen McAllister in the death of her brother.

The Woodstock Historical Society cites the progress it has made since its organization 15 years ago this November. It has an active membership, a museum with numerous exhibits, and many programs for the public. The society notes its museum on Main Street was renovated and filled with exhibits through the efforts of its members. It houses such items as furniture, glass, china, furs, costumes, art, tools, and old photos. Its library includes original research on Woodstock by local historian Ruby Emery and books on cultural and historical topics. Monthly programs are presented at the meetings, and many society products have been produced to sell. The society sponsored its first "History Day" this past summer. It also tries to provide information on the area and topics of interest to the public through local papers. Larry Billings, curator, has given three additional works of art to the historical museum.

The November meeting of the Woodstock Historical Society will feature Ken Whitman, director of Oxford County Emergency Preparedness.

Curator Larry Billings took a mini course on antiques from Basil Sequin.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Schnur (nee Margaret Howe) have been visiting in the area.

Bryant Pond Baptist Church will host a Good News Club on Thursday, Oct. 27, 6 to 7:15 p.m. at the church annex. All school children are welcome. Miss Joyce Forsyth and Miss Eva Hunt, missionaries to Mexico for many years will assist at the first club meeting. Any questions, call Pastor Hanson at 665-2275.

Haunted House Planned -- The Greenwood Recreation Board is once again planning the annual Halloween Haunted House to be held at the Greenwood Town Hall. Anyone with new ideas or who would be willing to help with this fun event may contact the following Recreation Board members: Jackie Brown at 875-3757; Alberta Broomhall at 875-3305; Herb Dunham at 665-2745; or Sally Smith at 824-3332.

Donations in the way of candy, decorations or cash are also needed due to the overwhelming response to this event in the past. Over 100 children attended last year.

This is one of several fund-raising events to raise funds to make repairs to the Greenwood ball field and children's play area.

A benefit dance is also planned for Nov. 19 featuring "The Impalas," at the Jackson-Silver Post 68 in Locke Mills. Advance ticket sales encouraged. Call 875-3305 or 824-3332 for more information.

Sitting in my lawn swing one warm afternoon, as it was nearing its close, I watched the sun drop back of the mountain. The valley was full of long light and a bit of breeze began to move toward the house, so I took a last look at ridge after ridge of leaf color, then went inside.

Here I could still see and think about the color and the hills.

The sun was dropping its brilliance down on the leaves and the pond. It was bringing out the blue of the hills and the earth color of the rocks. The woods were peaceful and quiet, like a kitten asleep waiting for someone to awaken it.

I thought of the meadows so recently in bloom with yellow buttercups. Beyond there was a wooded area that yielded wild violets and Jack-in-the-pulpits. There was a tiny stream, too, that was always clear and rushed along brightly, reflecting the sky and capturing the clouds.

Of course at this time of year, October, I always recall my last walk with Ruth and the poem she quoted that day, "There's a whisper in the woodland/There's a murmur in the brake/There's a scarlet gypsy maple/Dancing by the mirror lake," (Stanley Foss Bartlett)

The twilight deepened, the sky which had turned a pale and luminous green, was leached of its color. Night had come.

The Hollis -- Fay, Robert, David and Mary -- drove to Boston on Oct. 17 to see their eye doctor.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Inman had two of their granddaughters visiting them several days last week.

John Betts visited his daughter and his brother in New Hampshire over the weekend.

I went to the Retired Teachers' meeting in Harrison with Lettie Brooks, Avis Stellhorn, Louvie Coffin on Oct. 15. The program by Barbara Waters on Sarah Orne Jewett was very interesting.

Howdy, folks. This is Monday, Oct. 17, and what a beautiful day it is. We've had several super nice days lately and we'll pay for all this nice weather with miserable weather later on.

Last Monday, while working in the garden, I had company come that I hadn't seen for a long time, Brian Hoff, who married Richard Cole's daughter Martha, and Evelyn Whitney called. Brian, Martha and children were here from Pennsylvania and Evelyn was here from Florida. I can't remember how long it has been since I saw Evelyn.

Tuesday evening, Peggy and I attended an alumni meeting at Alice Hoyt's in Bryant Pond. The purpose of the meeting was to make plans for serving the Senior Citizen dinner at Franklin Grange Hall in November. This will be one of the first Thanksgiving dinners for this season, and we decided what would be done and who would do it. We had a lunch following the meeting, and that was the part of the meeting I liked best.

I finished my harvesting from the garden on Wednesday while Peggy was down street having a permanent. I'm one of the lucky ones; I have a permanent bald head and a little trimming around the edges does me up just fine.

Wednesday afternoon, Peggy took me down to the hospital where I got my monthly blood test. I also had other errands to do while down there.

We had just arrived home when I got a call from Frank Perham that he had my old truck repaired and ready for us to get it, so Peggy took me right over after it.

The next day I had an appointment to see Dr. Ware in Norway, so Peggy drove me down. When they were ready to check me out, Dr. Ware told me that there was a resident lady doctor from Portland there and he wanted her to check me over and report to him. She seemed to know what she was doing, and after she reported to him they gave me a flu shot and sent me home.

Thursday evening, we went up to West Paris Grange Hall to help get the tables set up and other things lined up and ready for the craft sale on Saturday.

While Peggy was away doing her card work at Rite Aid Drug Stores on Friday, one of the things I decided to do was to make some yeast rolls for the food table on Saturday. I hadn't made any yeast rolls for a long time and found that it took me longer than I thought it would, but I had all day so time didn't matter too much. They turned out to be quite good, and I guess those that bought them have not suffered any serious consequences.

Saturday was a beautiful day for the craft sale at West Paris Grange, and although we went early to get the C.W.A. table set up, there were others there ahead of us. Exhibitors came with nearly everything mentionable, and a lot of it. The display was very nice, but what was missed most of all were buyers. We did expect more people to come since it was such a nice day, but the gang was rather small. This was the opening day of Wal-Mart in Oxford, and I expect that some people spent their money down there instead of at the West Paris sale. When the sale was planned, nobody knew that Mal-Mart would be opening the same day. It is hard to plan anything without someone else having something on the same day. Anyway, several of the displays sold quite a lot.

Peggy was very tired when the meal was finished and the dining hall had been cleared of the extra tables, but after resting some at home she decided to attend the dance at West Paris Grange Hall and had a very good time.

Yesterday was another beautiful day, and we decided to spend some time taking a trip. We left and went to Mexico where we turned left and went up to Roxbury and on to Quosoc. We stopped to take some pictures at the height of the land. It was a beautiful sight. There were very little foliage left on the trees but the lake and mountains were very scenic. We stopped beyond Quosoc to eat the lunch we had taken with us. It seemed warm and nice in the car, but when we got outside to eat our lunch we found it to still be quite cool. After lunch we continued on our way through Wilson's Mills to Errol, N.H., and then home by way of Upton.

Our visitors on Sunday evening were Bryce and Barbara Yates. When we returned from our ride they were visiting our brother and his wife next door and then came down to visit us. They had been away for several months touring the Western States and just returned home a few days ago. We were sure glad to see them again and to hear about their travels.

There will be a dance at Locke Mills Town Hall on Oct. 29, with music by the Richard Felt Orchestra. This will be their Halloween dance and anyone wishing to show off their Halloween costume is welcome there. There will be a lot of competition, so really make it worthwhile!

By MARTA CLEMENTS

Parents and teachers met on Oct. 11 to discuss the children's progress to date. Parents were given a sample of the new rank card, which will be used this year for the first time.

There are some major changes. Grades for English and spelling will be reflected in the grade for writing. Each area to be graded will include several categories to be reported on as well as the overall grade. There is also space for parents to use for comments before sending the card back to school. Another change will be that parents will receive the original, not a copy. This means that the card and the cover will both be returned to school.

Speaking of rank cards -- grades will close on Nov. 3, and the new report card will be going home on Monday, Nov. 14.

Banking started up again this year on Monday, Oct. 24. Thanks to Robin Sessions for handling the to-and-fro deliveries.

The Parent Volunteer Harvest Supper was successful. A good profit was made, and the dinner was pronounced delicious by those who attended.

Classroom news this week: The kindergarten children are participating in child safety activities as a follow-up to their visit from Violet the Clown and her safety messages. They have visited our local library. Parent Volunteer, Mrs. Makely, introduced children to the library and provided a story time as well. Follow-up projects on this trip will be undertaken soon. The class has studied up to the letter E, and made donuts for the letter D. Fire safety and Halloween are on the agenda all this week.

Mrs. Loper's first-graders are learning about the moon. They are keeping a record in their moon books of what the moon looks like each night. Tuesday they made Bears Shadow puppets.

Grades one, two and three will be joining together in a study of our community very soon.

In math the first-graders are working on the number 5. They are using unifix cubes, multilinks, pattern blocks and introducing their collection boxes. Halloween poetry, songs and stories are being enjoyed this week.

The second-graders are learning to write friendly letters using correct form. One group of second-graders signed up for a computer activity this past week and were excited and enthusiastic.

The third-graders are working on the annual Third Grade Scarecrow Show, which will be held on Friday, Oct. 28, from 10 to 12 a.m. All classes will walk through during this time to view scarecrows and ask questions about them. Parents and friends are welcome also. The scarecrows will vary in size, but must be able to stand on their own.

The fourth-graders have a written book report due on Oct. 21. They are reading stories about agriculture in Maine; particularly blueberries in Oxford and Washington counties. They are working on the letters U and T in penmanship. In math they are rounding numbers.

My fifth-graders are planning a bottle drive on Saturday, Oct. 29, to raise money for field trips. We will be meeting at Cam's Redemption Center at 9 a.m. on Saturday morning. Friday, Oct. 28, is the deadline for a book report on "Space Challenger," and reciting a poem of their own choice. In creative writing, we are learning how to develop the topic and use details that stick to the topic.

The sixth-graders are winding down their reading and science unit on the seashore. They are learning about division and decimals in math. Homework should be coming home.

Notes From Telstar Guidance

Telstar High School graduate Amy Hannon of Gilead scored the game-winning goals in two recent Clark University's victories. Hannon scored her first goal of the season last week on a penalty stroke with 10:24 left in the game against Worcester Polytechnic Institute. Hannon also lifted Clark to a 1-0 victory against Assumption recently.

Hannon is Clark's second-leading scorer so far this season with two goals and a team-high five assists. She has moved up to sixth on the Cougars' all-time scoring list with 13 goals, 19 assists and 45 career points.

Hannon also received the Nun-nemacher Endowment Award during the Fall Convocation ceremony at Clark. The award is a $1,000 grant and is given annually to fund study at the Bermuda Biological Center for Research. Hannon is a junior biology major, and a graduate of Telstar High School.

CRAIG E. BRYANT FOR SHERIFF OF OXFORD COUNTY

Native of Rumford
Age 54, Married, 3 Children
6 Year Veteran, U.S. Marines
6 year Veteran with Rumford Police Dept.
B.S. Degree in Criminal Justice
15 Years as Small Business Owner

4 years ago, we were promised a change in the way the Sheriff's Department was being operated, with new policies & procedures to create more cost-effective and efficient department.

The Sheriff has stated that his main concern was to save US tax dollars and that over the past 3 years he has saved thousands of dollars.

Four years ago, the Sheriff's budget was $1,010,100.00. Today it is $1,370,426.00. This means that he has spent over $360,000 for these so-called new policies & procedures.

I do not see how he can say that his 36% increase over the past 3 years is saving tax dollars or has been cost effective to the taxpayers of Oxford County.

I cannot promise you that I can reduce this 36% increase, but I will promise you, if elected, there will be no such increase for the next 4 years.

Jackson-Silver Post #68

Girls and boys from Telstar High School and Gould Academy were honored Oct. 20 when the Jackson-Silver American Legion Post and Auxiliary hosted their delegates who attended the Girls and Boys State programs last June.

After a ham dinner, the five young people cut the special cake made and beautifully decorated by auxiliary member Sally Smith, in their honor. After the dessert, each of them told about their experiences, the friends they made, the things they learned about the workings of government at all levels and the offices they ran for.

Amanda McInnis of Bryant Pond was elected to the office of district attorney for her county. Others reported that they ran for legislative office and lost, but became lobbyists.

Other honored guests at the head table included: Fannie Cummings, past department president (1942-43); Shirley Williams, long-time director of Girls State; Vito DeFilipp, past national vice commander; Ed Roach, past department commander and current Dept. finance officer, each of whom spoke. Others present and recognized were John Howe, past Dept. commander, Olive Risko, alternate second district president; Michael Walsh, Dept. commander of the Sons of The American Legion Detachment; and several past county and district commanders and presidents. Guests were present from Rumford, Dixfield, Dryden, Norway and South Paris.

Delegates to Girls State at Husson College in Bangor and Boys State at the Maine Maritime Academy in Castine are chosen at random from lists of eligible students who are in the upper academic ranks of their junior-year classes. They take part in all phases of government. Each is assigned a town, county and party, and the entire week is devoted to learning, not only the privileges of living under our form of government, but the responsibilities of citizenship as well.

Those who attended this past June were: Amanda McInnis, Laura Seames, Kevin Mullen, Jarrod Crockett and Kevin Rosenberg. Questioned afterward, each expressed disappointment that they were not yet old enough to vote next month, but planned to exercise that privilege as soon as they can.

At the meeting which followed, auxiliary members continued to prepare for the supper, variety show and dance which will take place on June 25. The evening begins at 5:30 and costs just $5 for adults and $2.50 for children under 12. This is a chem free event to which anyone can feel free to bring children. In fact, one of the acts in the show will include children.

On Nov. 4, the Jackson-Silver Post will entertain the national commander, William Detweiler, at a banquet in his honor. The auxiliary will prepare and serve the meal. The deadline for reservations is Oct. 28 and may be made by calling 875-2375 and indicating your choice of stuffed breast of chicken or smothered beef as a main course. The cost is $10. Request for tickets can also be mailed to the Jackson-Silver Post at Locke Mills.

HEALTHY LIVING

Free Workshop on Arthritis at Stephens Memorial Hospital

on Thursday, October 27th at 7:00 p.m. Physical Therapist Sharon Phinney will present a workshop entitled "Protecting Your Joints for the Arthritic and Non-Arthritic Person." "Arthritis means joint swelling, pain and loss of motion. It can effect your joints, muscles, and bones. The effects of arthritis are lessened if one keeps active and moves one's joints. However, even so, joints may periodically flare up and limit daily activities and recreational activities.

"Protecting Your Arthritic Joints" is a lecture for both the arthritic and non-arthritic person. Learn how to reduce stress on joints so not to cause more pain and swelling, joint damage, loss of function, and therefore loss of independence.

Written materials will be provided to take home. Participants will be able to try out some devices that make daily activities easier and less painful. Following the lecture, participants will have a better understanding of joint protection and how to implement the principles into their own lives.

For more information on this free workshop, call the Physical Therapy Department at Stephens Memorial Hospital, 743-5933, Extension 447.

Managing your time during shorter days

by: Daniel O. Hart
School Counselor & Licensed Professional Counselor

This time of year requires each of us to assess our time and activities. As summer ends and fall begins, the following changes affects our time management.

• Daylight time is shorter - in the morning and soon after dinner time.

• Returning to school - our daily schedule now must adjust to time involved in making lunches, writing notes, picking out clothes to wear, homework and bed time schedule. These back to school events can be stressful for grades K-12 students and parents, especially after a summer of a different daily schedule.

• Extra curricula activities - many school aged children/teens are beginning to fill their after school schedule - athletics, music, dance, art, part-time jobs, clubs, etc. These activities require planning for transportation, child care before or after the activity, equipment needed for activity, and homework schedule after putting in a long day.

• Football Season - this month brings many fall sports - but none more popular than college and professional football. Generally, weekends and Monday nights are times when boyfriends, husbands, dads, uncles, grandfathers, etc. spend more time in front of the television! Does it cause conflicts with family members?

• Last minute chores before winter arrives - is there enough time after school, work, or on weekends to prepare for winter - firewood, gardens, leaves/lawn care, sealing driveways, painting the house, oil burner service, automobile service, etc.

These are just five areas that many of us are involved with in the changing of shorter days. Suggestions in making the adjustment to the fall season may be...

• Family members discuss and divide up prep for school and home chores.

• Schedule consistent and appropriate homework times for students. Teachers can assist you as well.

• Structure/schedule a family time activity one afternoon or night during the week - and one during the weekend; a hike, bike ride, rent a video, watch an area athletic event, etc.

• For outdoor projects, get neighbor(s) and friend(s) to help and you then return the favor.

• Take some personal time to energize yourself mentally and physically - take a walk, read a book, take up a new hobby, enroll in an adult education class, visit with a neighbor or friend, write in a diary or a letter.

In summation, just because the days are shorter and you/family have more to do, you need to determine what you and others can take on and cope with realistically. If you add on an activity or commitment, balance your time by dropping or phasing out another activity. Seek help with chores. Make time for personal energizing activities. Accept the changes gradually and in small steps.

Managing Your High Blood Pressure brought to you by:

Preb's Market Place Pharmacy

• More than 60 million Americans have hypertension, or high blood pressure. Untreated it can lead to heart failure, stroke and kidney damage.

• Hypertension often has no symptoms, so it is very important to have your blood pressure checked regularly by a healthcare professional.

• If you have hypertension, make the life style changes recommended. These might include: weight reduction, smoking cessation, a low-sodium, low-fat diet, and beginning a program of regular exercise. A weight loss of as little as 10 pounds can reduce hypertension.

• Follow exactly the medication plan given to you.

• Ask your doctor, nurse or pharmacist to write down your medication schedule, fitting it into your personal routine.

• Choose one or two activities that you do everyday. Link those activities with taking your medications.

• If you feel like quitting your medications, don't give up. To work properly they must be taken over a long period of time.

• If you can't follow your diet, exercise and medication program, talk it over with your pharmacist or doctor.

• Become a partner with your pharmacist and doctor and work together for a longer, healthier life.

Helpful Hints for Hearing Aid Care

By: Sparkes Hearing Services

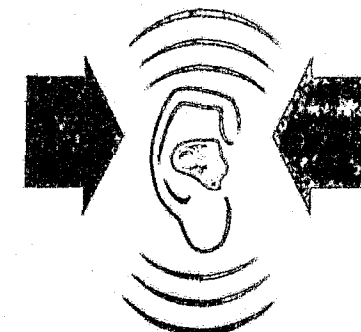

Hearing aids are fine tuned delicate instruments. They provide a tremendous listening benefit for many people.

Follow the guidelines listed here to insure that your hearing aids work properly:

1) Be certain that good working batteries are put into the aids. Never force the battery doors closed. Leave the battery doors open when the aids are not in use. This will help to prevent corrosion and extend the life of the battery.

2) Turn the volume full-on and cup your hands around the aid. There should be a whistling sound. This is called feedback. Feedback is to be expected if there is an object held near the microphone of the hearing aid. There should not be feedback when the hearing aid is in your ear, after you take your hand away. If the feedback persists, it may be an indication of excess wax in your ears or in the aid.

3) Use a wax loop or toothbrush to clean your hearing aids. Hearing aids will not function if clogged with wax. Clean them everyday. Hold the aids upside down for cleaning, so that any dirt falls out of the aid and not into it.

7) Wear your hearing aids consistently. Infrequent use does not allow you to receive full benefit from them.

8) Keep your hearing and hearing aids checked at least once a year by your hearing health professional. There may be a shift in your hearing that is not apparent to you. If a shift is found, your hearing aids may need adjustment. It is a good idea to have the aids cleaned and checked to minimize costly hearing aid repairs.

9) Wear both of your hearing aids to obtain the best hearing in a noisy situation. The use of both ears helps you to tell the location of a sound. Aiding both ears helps to reduce the distortion, since you don't have to turn the volume of your aid up as high as with only one ear being aided.

10) Remember that even the best hearing aid is just that - an aid! Hearing aids help you to hear better, they do not make your hearing completely normal again.

LEARNING ABOUT THE PAST—Students in Mrs. Gilbert's fourth grade Maine Studies class are studying about life in rural Maine during the 1920s. Stan Howe, executive director of the Bethel Historical Society, visited the class with a slide presentation to show the children what Bethel's Main Street looked like at the turn of this century. Shown here with Dr. Howe are Jenni Whitman and Heather Zimmerman. (Photo by Yvonne Newell)

Stan Howe publishes history of Maine Grange

The first and most comprehensive history of the Maine State Grange is now available. The history was written by Stanley R. Howe, Ph.D., director of the Bethel Historical Society.

State Master Clyde G. Berry said "This has been a project of five years. I am very pleased with the final product."

Published by the Maine State Grange and titled, "A Fair Field and No Favor": A Concise History of the Maine State Grange, the book covers the Grange's origins in the 1870s through its long history into the 1990s.

The 144 page, hard-cover volume contains a wealth of detail about an organization which has touched the lives of many Maine people for the last 120 years.

Howe, who holds a Ph.D. in history from the University of Maine, details efforts to improve the lot of Maine farm families through cooperative buying, Grange stores, Grange insurance companies, improved fertilizer quality, a fairer taxation system, and increased support for the University of Maine and public schools. The Grange provided special outlets for women, who were equal as members with men, long before passage of the women's suffrage amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Functioning as a predecessor to the adult education movement of the era, the Grange sponsored reading lists to improve minds, and programs to entertain and educate rural families of the era. Some Grange halls even housed libraries.

For over half its history, Grange membership hovered between 50 and 60 thousand scattered throughout Maine. The Grange lobbied hard for its legislative goals and was often a powerful proponent of change. Many members were legislators and several State Masters were also candidates for Maine governor. Frederick Robie of Gorham not only served as State Grange Master, but also as the state's chief executive.

In the 20th century, the Grange worked closely with other farm organizations such as the Extension Service, Farm Bureau, and the 4-H Clubs to improve farming practices and the general quality of rural life.

Profusely illustrated with more than 100 photographs, the book also contains numerous appendices providing lists of Granges and officers through the 120 years of existence. It can be ordered from the State Grange, 146 State Street, Augusta, ME 04330 for $19.95 plus $3 for shipping.

Ethernet inventor to speak at Gould

Dr. Robert Metcalfe, CEO of Infoworld Publishing Company, will speak at Gould Academy on Thursday, Oct. 27, at 7:30 p.m. He is the inventor of the Ethernet, the most widely installed local area network for personal computers, and has pioneered research and development of computer networking technology. Metcalfe began his research while a student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, then joined in the early development of personal computing at the Xerox Palo Alto Research Center, during which time he became an associate professor of electrical engineering at Stanford University. After leaving Xerox, he founded 3Com Corporation, which has grown to over $400 million in annual sales, with more than 3 million of its Ethernet PC Local Area Network adapters installed worldwide. Following his retirement from 3Com, Metcalfe served as a visiting fellow in the computer laboratory at the University of Cambridge, England, and, in 1992, became CEO of InfoWorld, publisher of a leading personal computer news weekly for corporate information systems managers. He is currently writing a book on invention and entrepreneurship in computer networking, with the working title "Ethernet versus Godzilla."

Metcalfe is married to author Robyn Shotwell. With their two children, they reside in Lincolnville, Maine. Metcalfe's lecture will detail six concepts of the Information Superhighway, including the Internet, bulletin board systems, and corporate networks. There will also be an opportunity for the audience to address specific questions to Dr. Metcalfe.

There is no charge for the lecture, which is open to the public and will be presented in the Bingham Auditorium. For further information, contact Gould associate headmaster Dr. Harry Dresser at 824-7700.

MHS seeking volunteer instructors

As Maine Handicapped Skiing (MHS) enters its 13th year of operation, volunteers are needed to teach skiing to students with disabilities. Enthusiastic individuals, who have intermediate to advanced skiing abilities, are encouraged to request a volunteer instructor application from MHS at 824-2440.

Volunteers must be 18 years of age and be willing to commit one day of ski instruction per week (Monday-Friday), Jan. 2 to March 18. Volunteer instructors are also required to attend two of the 17 training clinics which MHS offers between Nov. 18 and Dec. 20. These clinics introduce volunteers to special equipment and teaching techniques and include instruction in sit ski, 4-track, bi-ski, 3-track, mono-ski and blind guiding.

For each day of volunteer service, all MHS volunteers receive a complimentary lift pass from Sunday River Ski Resort. However, one needn't be a skier in order to become a Maine Handicapped Skiing volunteer, or to receive a complimentary ticket. It takes over 300 volunteers to make MHS function smoothly, and the program coordinators also seek assistance with fundraising, office support, photography, videotaping and snowmobile driving.

Thanks to the support of Sunday River Ski Resort as well as contributions from individuals, corporations, foundations and MHS's annual Ski-A-Thon, Maine Handicapped Skiing is able to offer this exciting program free of charge to anyone with a physical disability. People with physical disabilities who are interested in learning more about Maine Handicapped Skiing's Programs may contact MHS student program coordinator Pat Gregoire at 824-2440 for more information.

MHS's 13th season begins Jan. 2, 1995. Special occasions in this year's calendar of events include the Blind/Visually Impaired Ski Day in February and the Tenth Annual Ski-A-Thon in March. Last year the Ski-A-Thon raised $230,000, which provides for standard and adaptive ski equipment, training of volunteer instructors, and winter outerwear. This year the event will be held Saturday, March 18. If anyone is interested in helping with the Ski-A-Thon or forming a team, please call the MHS office (824-2440) or stop in at the MHS Ski Center adjacent to the Sundance Slope at Sunday River Ski Resort.

The ensemble includes a flute, an oboe, and a guitar. The combination of instruments is unique as they present music from all periods, baroque, classical, and 20th century. Anton Kiskin, Vicki Bodner, and Eric Davis are the members of the trio, who often perform solo rather than as a trio.

New 'War of the Worlds' on Public Radio

Some of today's most prominent science fiction actors lend their voices to a new production of the Halloween classic, "The War of the Worlds," airing Halloween night at 9:30 on the stations of Maine Public Radio. Leonard Nimoy, Brent Spiner, Gates McFadden and John de Lancie are some of the "Star Trek" alumni who update the H.G. Wells classic. The production uses Howard Koch's original radio screenplay for "The War of the Worlds," and features a sequel written by Koch especially for this broadcast.

The original Koch script was made famous in its first performance by the Orson Welles Mercury Theater on Oct. 30, 1938. That broadcast caused near riots around the country because many listeners thought they were hearing actual news reports about Martians landing in New Jersey.

"The War of the Worlds" can be heard Halloween night beginning at 9:30 on the stations of Maine Public Radio: 89.7 Calais, 90.1 Portland, 90.9 Bangor, 91.3 Waterville, 106.1 Presque Isle, and 106.5 Fort Kent.

Mr. & Mrs. Todd J. Wheeler

On Aug. 27, Amy J. Blake of Norway and Todd J. Wheeler of Norway were united in marriage at the West Paris Congregational Church at 4 in the afternoon by Revs. Brendon and Jean Bass.

Serving as matron of honor was Christine M. Blake, sister-in-law of the bride. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Penny Blake, sister-in-law of bride, Diane Kellogg, Jen Brackett, Lynn Wheeler, Nancy Buck and Courtney Blake.

Serving as best man was Ken Vigor, a friend of the groom. Ushers were Brian Blake, Harlan Blake, Mike Moody, Mike Stickney and Kevin McPherson.

The ring bearer was Ryan Blaumont, nephew of the groom.

The bride wore a gown of white-sequined lace over satin which featured a V-off the shoulder neckline and long sleeves embellished with tiny seed pearls and silk floss motifs. The sheath skirt was trimmed with narrow lace and was enhanced by a large bow and detachable semi-cathedral length train.

A reception was held at the Locke Mills Legion Hall.

The bride is the daughter of Charles and Patricia Blake of Bethel. She is a 1990 graduate of Telstar and a graduate of the New Hampshire Technical School and is employed at Dr. Starvas in Portland.

The bridegroom is the son of Thomas and Shelia Wheeler of Jackson, Ala., formerly of Rumford Center. He is a 1990 graduate of Mt. Valley High School and attended U.S.M. He is employed at Allen and Cole Trucking in Portland.

The couple enjoyed a wedding trip to Mt. Blue State Park.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words comfort and hope for your daily life.

What creates a child molester? According to the Bible, child sexual abuse is sparked by the same thing that prompts other crimes against humanity: sin.

According to the Oct/Nov 1985 issue of "Public Opinion," 84 percent of the nation at that time believed that human nature is fundamentally good. Yet the Bible tells us that "There is none righteous, not even one..." (Rom 3:10). If the Scriptures are correct, is it any surprise that child sexual abuse has increased as society tolerates more and more deviant sexual behavior and flaunts children as sexual objects? Of course not.

Sin manifests itself in many forms: slander, bitterness, strife, murder, covetousness, thievery, homosexuality, adultery, drunkenness, and drug abuse, to name a few. The manifestations are boundless and vary in intensity and degree. They are also unpredictable and timeless. Child molestation is no different, as it ranges from fondling to killing the child. The molester may have superior control over his/her lust for the child or no control at all, may surface in a large city or small town, be from a family of means or a poor family, hold a respected job in the community or a job of low self-esteem. It is also timeless: the child molester is not merely a product of the 20th century.

Like any sin, child sexual abuse spreads more rapidly as society provides the molester with greater enticement, acceptance, opportunity, excuses, and stimulation. We know that 80 percent of all child molesters were themselves abused as children, that society provides the pedophile with a rational argument for having sex with children, that society accepts abnormal sex, that popular culture portrays children as hankering for promiscuous sex, that adult pornography promotes the sexual attractiveness of children, and that some social thinkers prefer to make excuses for the molester by blaming child sexual abuse on wayward genes and learned behavior.

If these forces are combined, we can understand that they serve as a catalyst to the sin of child sexual abuse. And if they continue, can society expect any other than a continued increase in child sex offenders.

Card of Thanks

To all who were so thoughtful after my recent accident, my heartfelt appreciation. Those cards, messages of hope and care sustained me through a difficult period.

To my children and husband, my undying gratitude and love; to the rest of my family, pulling together in times of crisis is a skill that you all do so well. Your support, encouragement and humor were just what the doctor ordered.

Thanks so much. I am so lucky to live in such a caring community.
